SESSION DETAILS

Thursday, November 15 – Aspiring Leaders Cohort

9 – 10:15 a.m.

AL Cohort Session 1
Leadership Skills and Competencies of CC Leaders
Dr. Scott Peska, Waubensee Community College
Fon Du Lac DE

The American Association of Community Colleges (AACC) has developed a leadership competency model to prepare the next generation of Community College leaders. Higher Education is changing, and emerging leaders must have the skills and competencies to lead community colleges forward into the future. Dr. Scott Peska and Matthew Piper will explore AACC's leadership competency model and assess your own individual foundation of core values. Every participant will craft a unique Aspiring Leaders Development Plan.

10 – 11:45 a.m.

AL Cohort Session 2
Funding in Illinois Community Colleges
Greg Florian, VP, Finance, Richland Community College
Dr. Vicki Gardner, VP, Finance and Administration, Kankakee Community College
Fon Du Lac DE

This session provides a walk through funding at the 20,000-foot level providing a fairly comprehensive look at the major components for funding including forecast models in Illinois Community Colleges.

Program Development

Tanya Woltmann, College of Lake County

Jeffrey Stomper, College of Lake County

Fon Du Lac DE

Program development is a never-ending journey for those of us in community colleges. The pace at which new programs, both academic and non-academic, are being developed only seems to be increasing and being well prepared to manage the development cycle is a crucial skill. Whether you are leading a development effort, contributing to a component of the development process, or implementing the results of what has been developed, this session will offer strategies to keep you on the right path.

Thursday, November 15 – Pre-Conference Sessions

1:30 – 3 p.m.

1A Strategies for Integrating Soft Skills Training into Internship Programs for Student Success

Dr. Matthew Hora, University of Wisconsin

Fon Du Lac F

While widely recognized as high-impact practices, designing effective internships and other forms of work-based learning is a difficult task. This is especially true with respect to integrating “soft” skills such as communication and problem-solving into internship programs. This session will feature strategies for incorporating these skills into internships based on empirical research and practitioner insights.

- 1B A Life Line for Turbulent Times
Brenda Roland, Joliet Junior College
River 1

This presentation provides information that will aid in the identification of components of success courses that really work and those components that are just window dressings. The workshop will expand knowledge and enhance your understanding of students' success.

3 – 4:45 p.m.

- 2A African American Men in Men of Vision (MOV) and Their Perspectives of Community Colleges
Jorge Tennin, College of Lake County
Fon Du Lac F

This session will discuss what African American Men of Vision perceive college to be! Universally, there is a struggle to retain African American men in college. Has anyone ever thought to ask them why? This session shares the shocking responses and how we can break down the barriers when we know what the issues are. We often think we know what student barriers are, but do we?

- 2B Data Drives Online Student Success!
Mary Lou Watson and Dr. Melissa Batchelor, Lewis & Clark Community College
River 1

To drive students and faculty to a successful online experience, Lewis and Clark Community College created decision rules for student enrollment. They also developed an introductory course for students, a training course for faculty, and a peer-review process for all online/hybrid courses. The results were dramatic!

Keynote Presentation

Beyond the Skills Gap:

Preparing College Students for Life and Work in Turbulent Times

Dr. Matthew Hora, University of Wisconsin

This session presents a critical analysis of the “skills gap” argument, using data from the presenter's empirical research on college-workforce pathways, employers’ skill needs, and soft skills development. The talk will focus on how college educators can best design learning experiences – whether in the classroom or via internship programs – that will provide students with the opportunity to acquire social and cultural capital to thrive in the workplace and society of the 21st century.

PULLING TOGETHER FOR STUDENT SUCCESS IN TURBULENT TIMES
November 15–16, 2018

Friday, November 16, Concurrent Sessions S1A – S1E
9 – 9:50 a.m.

- S1A What Does Participation Look Like In Your Class? A Workshop to Explore Successful Participation/Engagement Assessment
Dakota Horn and Jen Vieley, Heartland Community College
2018 ICCFA Workshop Grant Recipients
Fon Du Lac A

This session will provide a brief overview of the 2018 ICCFA Grant-funded Workshop. The presenters will share various ways to successfully assess student participation and engagement. The session also provides an overview of the workshop that participants can attend in 2019.

- S1B Wait a Minute – You Mean We Get to Take Sabbaticals?! The Community College Sabbatical
Chris Utecht, 2017 ICCFA Research Grant Recipient, College of Lake County
Mick Cullen, College of Lake County
Fon Du Lac B

The presenters will describe their sabbatical experiences. Mick's sabbatical focused on developing and implementing Lancer Radio, the College of Lake County's student-run radio station. Chris completed a research project studying the working lives of corrections officers at a local jail facility. Both sabbaticals ultimately focused on improving the experience for students at their institution. Mick and Chris will also share tips on sabbatical plan preparation and execution to maximize the sabbatical experience.

- S1C One Button Studio—An Easy and Economical Way for Students to Produce Great Looking Videos for Class Projects
Cindy Arthur, Carl Sandburg College
Fon Du Lac C

Video assignments are a great way for students to improve presentation skills. The One Button Studio is an easy-to-use digital video production studio that will make this student experience possible. The software for the One Button Studio is an open source download, and the required hardware is minimal and affordable for any school budget. Walk away from this presentation with all the necessary information to make easy and budget-friendly video presentations a reality at your school!

S1D Play the Finish Line Game!

Kimberly Tarver and Ann King, Elgin Community College
Fon Du Lac F

Part 1: Walk through the shoes of ten students as they navigate their journeys through college and explore the impact of college policies, practice, and culture on student progress and success.

S1E What the Best Community College Teachers Do

Matthew Stratton, Geneva College
River 1

Extensive research has previously been conducted concerning best teaching practices within traditional university settings. However, community colleges represent a significantly different educational context. This presentation elucidates research study findings regarding the thinking and practices of exceptional community college teachers.

Concurrent Sessions S2A – S2E
10– 10:50 a.m.

S2A Create a Summer Experience in the Liberal Arts: Pulling Together an Educational Mystery for High School Recruitment

Nancy Sutton, Cindy Smith, and Christina Beatty, Parkland College
Fon Du Lac A

This session will explore a summer program for teens that introduces forensics, math, physics, humanities, psychology, anthropology, theater, media, and more; in a fast-paced, hands-on crime scenario. It will also discuss the development of similar outreach and recruitment programs from the perspective of administrators, staff, and faculty.

S2B Implementing Online Course Quality Rubrics — Not So Scary!

Sara Gallagher and Cynthia Anderson, Moraine Valley Community College
Fon Du Lac B

Join us in a discussion regarding selecting, modifying, and implementing an online course quality rubric. We'll share our victories, challenges, and future plans.

S3A Incorporating Global Issues in the Classroom for Successful Transfer to Four-Year Institutions

Isabel Scarborough and Student, Parkland College
River 1

Social science faculty at Parkland College participated in a project to incorporate cross-cultural comparisons of social justice issues to encourage student knowledge on global connections. This presentation shares how this engagement can increase student success in transfer to four-year institutions.

S3B Meeting Students Where They Are: Addressing the Needs of a Diverse Population

Francesca Catalano, Kankakee Community College
Fon Du Lac B

The discussion will center on efforts made to meet the needs of three diverse populations at Kankakee Community College with an overarching intent to increase student success and retention. These populations include students with food insecurities, LGBTQ+ students, and underrepresented groups in STEM. We will discuss current and proposed initiatives, ask if similar efforts are underway at other institutions, and invite comments.

S3C Preparing Faculty for the Active Learning Classroom

Teena Zindel-McWilliams and Kona Jones, Richland Community College
Fon Du Lac C

Active Learning classrooms offer a tremendous benefit to the teaching and learning experience. This presentation explains what an active learning classroom looks like, the process of preparing faculty to use active learning classrooms, and the initial results of this training.

- S3D Let's Get Real: Practical Strategies for Personal Growth on Bias, Cultural Competency, and Structural Oppression
Traci Ellis, J.D., Illinois Mathematics and Science Academy
Fon Du Lac F

Often when we talk about bias, racism, privilege, and power, we talk about them as abstract concepts and theories. In this session, we will define the concepts so that we are all on the same page; and then discuss the practical application of disrupting and dismantling structural oppression.

- S3E Empowering Immigrant Writers: Finding Purpose and Voice in the Community
Allison Douglas, Colleen Stribling, and Rosa Banuelos (Student)
Elgin Community College
River 1

Even learner-centered college classrooms can be intimidating, especially for ESL students. However, valuing students' voices and expertise promotes their transition to academic programs. This session describes an ESL/composition collaboration that increases students' and professors' confidence and promotes student success.

- S4A Supporting Students in Turbulent Times – Examples, History, Advice and Collaboration
Liddy Hope and Rodrigo Lopez, Elgin Community College
Fon Du Lac A

This session will take a close and honest look at the pathways of response to student needs in turbulent times; including barriers, successes, and resources gained. Specific areas of focus will include students of color, immigration, and LGBTQIA students.

- S4B Collaborating with Counseling Faculty for Student Success
Dory Fillatreault and Julie Crowe-McCarthy, College of Lake County
Fon Du Lac B

While Counseling faculty often teach courses, much of their instruction occurs outside of the classroom. This presentation will focus on how you and the counseling faculty on your campus can collaborate to engage students using innovative ideas based on current student needs along with tried and true practices. There will also be time to engage in structured brainstorming based on your experiences and your institutional goals.

- S4C Research to Practice: How to Create a Budget-Friendly Mentoring Program for Underrepresented Students
Dr. Terry Lyn Funston, Pernvelon Ellis, and Matt Crull, Kishwaukee Community College
Fon Du Lac C

To improve Black male students' retention success rates using quantitative and qualitative data, the advisors for the Black Male Initiative and Black Student Union created a new mentoring component within these programs without requesting new funds and using limited funds.

- S4D No More Safety Nets! Using Universal Design for Learning (UDL) to Plan for Holistic Success on Campus
Zach Petrea and Traci Van Prooyen, Heartland Community College
Fon Du Lac F

Effective student support means more than providing reactionary interventions (safety nets); and it must begin with a holistic design of college services, curriculum, and instruction. Our experience demonstrates how the UDL framework provides guidance to support student before they fall.

- S4E High-Quality Career and Technical Education (CTE) Programming: Taking Another Look at Program Approval and Review Policies
Whitney Thompson and Dr. Heather Fox, Illinois Community College Board

The Illinois Community College Board (ICCB), in collaboration with the Office of Community College Research and Leadership (OCCRL), will share updates with the field on the journey to evaluating and revising the statewide program approval and review processes. Presenters will offer historical context to these processes and will dive into the goals and objectives of both CTE High-Quality Program Approval Pilot Project funded by the Joyce Foundation and OCCRL's external evaluation of the state's program review process. The presenters will discuss the importance of building a culture of evidence that supports equity-minded evidence-driven change, as part of the program review process; while providing a summary of the results from the program review project. Lastly, the presenters will share the next steps as well as discuss upcoming professional development, technical assistance, and resources.

- S5B Always Good to Have Helping Hands
Jim Stockwell and Christine Grela, McHenry Community College
Fon Du Lac B

We are used to doing things ourselves in the classroom, but why not get a helping hand? Find out how to add to your lectures and discussions with a little help from your colleagues through co-teaching and guest lecturing.

- S5C Civically Engaging Our Students: Kankakee Community College Launches the Illinois Civics Academy for Teachers
Dr. Christine Congdon, Kankakee Community College
Fon Du Lac C

In 2015, Illinois enacted legislation requiring high school graduates to complete one semester of civics. However, there are often challenges keeping students from being civically engaged at the community college. KCC launched the Illinois Civics Academy for Teachers (ICAT) in 2016 to assist faculty in implementing civics into the secondary classroom. Learn about the frameworks used to bring civics alive and leave with firsthand knowledge of the new civics standards.

- S5D From College Priorities to SMART Actions: Aligning Strategic and Operational Planning to Foster Continuous Improvement
Rick Pearce, Sarah Diel-Hunt, Melissa Fasig, and Scott Bross
Heartland Community College
Fon Du Lac F

Is your Strategic Plan collecting dust on a shelf? Can your faculty and staff tell you what your College's priorities are? Can you tie the things you are doing today on the job with the College's mission, vision, and values? Let's talk about one approach that directly connects your strategic planning and SMART actions to achieve your goals.
